Options and Resources if a parent does not follow the Custody/Visitation Court Order:

Should you have to go back to court, keep accurate records of all visitation violations. Keep a journal, mark up a calendar, or use the Child Custody Visitation Violation form with the dates and times that the other parent did not follow the order, did not show up, or showed up late, or created other problems.

Contact the Family Court Services office at Lamoreaux Justice Center – (<https://www.occourts.org/divisions/family-court-services>). They offer, at no cost, mediation services to parents who want to resolve custody or visitation disputes without filing for a court hearing. This is called "informal mediation" and can be scheduled by calling (657) 622-6196 for an appointment.

If there is a dispute or disagreement regarding the terms of custody and visitation, you can ask for modification of child custody or visitation orders – (<https://www.occourts.org/divisions/family-law/custody-visitation#9>). This can help prevent situations where one or both parents are trying to take matters into their own hands and are trying to create a new arrangement. Any changes should be approved by the court first before they are implemented.

Consider filing an action for "contempt" with the court. In contempt actions, you ask the court to enforce the order and make a finding that the other parent willfully disobeyed the court order. This is very complicated and can have serious consequences. Talk to a lawyer to find out what is best in your case.
